Chair Strayer reviewed the general rules and situations that might occur in the conduct of the Assembly meeting. “Delegates wishing to speak should come to one of the two microphones. We have a court reporter with us this morning who is recording this, and it will assist in her being able to hear what goes on. If you will please come to the microphone, give your name and your agency.

We would ask that delegates try not to have to leave during the voting. Certainly if it's an emergency you can leave without being disruptive, but it will expedite the process if the delegates can remain in place.

If someone in the audience that is not a voting delegate wishes to speak to any issue, someone who is a voting delegate must come to the microphone and yield their position to you and then you would be recognized by the Chair to speak. You may not just appear at the microphone. A delegate must invite you to speak and then we'd be glad to have you.

I also would ask if you would please turn your pagers and cell phones off for the duration of this voting or put them on vibrate so that won't be disruptive to the meeting.

Also, before I turn it over to John Krakowski, our Parliamentarian, who is going to give you the information you need to vote, in order to move the process along there will be ability to debate or discuss or speak to the issues, but it's the usual practice to limit that discussion so that we won't be here until this time tomorrow because I know everyone is anxious to get away, but yet we want to have time for full discussion.

So, at this time, I would entertain a motion to limit debate or discussion on each extracted issues."

Motion passed limiting debate to a total of 15 minutes, with the extractor of an issue limited to three minutes.

Parliamentarian Krakowski addressed the Assembly, clarifying that there are 44.5 votes which means that a two-thirds majority would be 29.66 votes; a simple majority will be any vote that comes greater than 22.25. Each state is entitled to one vote and the District of Columbia and territories are entitled to ½ vote. Further explanation ensued regarding the vote on a "no action" item; that a "no" vote has the effect of rejecting a Council recommendation. Further, "that there is a rule called 'a motion for consideration by paragraph' – a typical procedure for bylaws. When you're looking at a large volume of information and that there may need to be a review of a specific part of the bylaws that a motion can be made for consideration by paragraph. It needs to be seconded. It is not debatable, and then the person who made the motion to, for consideration by paragraph, gets to state their issue."

Chair Strayer then thanked Conference Parliamentarian Krakowski and Council Parliamentarians Gelfius and Boone. Chair Strayer then went on to explain the procedure for Council reports beginning with Council I – Fred Reimers to provide both Part A and Part B (No Action recommendations) of the Council report; the Conference Chair will then provide an opportunity to extract any issues from the report, if so desired; a vote will occur on the whole of the issues remaining in Part A; a vote to then be taken individually on each extracted issue from Part A; a vote to then be taken on the whole of Part B followed by a vote to be taken individually on any extracted issues from Part B. The same procedure to be followed on the Council II and Council III reports.

The Chair of Council I was recognized.
