

Conference for Food Protection – BIENNIAL MEETING WORKSHOP

“The Impact of New Food Technologies and New Foods on the Food Safety Professional”

April 13, 14, and 15, 2021 ▪ Noon to 1:00 PM each day (Eastern time) ▪ via Zoom

For registration information: <https://cfp2020registration.eventbrite.com>

The goal of this Workshop is to provide attendees with critical information about “what is new” along with access to related articles and reference information to supplement the presentations. All PowerPoint slides will be made available to attendees.

Date / Time	Presentation Title / Topic	Presenter(s)
April 13	NEW FOODS AND NEW TECHNOLOGIES
Noon	Welcome	Dr. Ben Chapman and Dr. Richard Linton, Program Co-Chairs, NC State University
	2-minute “speed dates” provide a preamble of what one needs to know about each topic:
	• Edible cannabis and botanicals	Thuy, Vu, Hammer Enterprises
	• 3-D printed foods	Dr. Tom Bell, Savour Food Safety International
	• Lab grown meats	Dr. Bill Aimutis, NC Food Innovation Lab
	• Edible insects	Speaker to be confirmed
12:10 pm	General Topic: Placing Food Safety Perspectives on Emerging Foods and Food Technologies: How do we Prepare Ourselves to Adapt to New Innovations?	Dr. Don Schaffner, Rutgers University
12:30 pm	Panel discussion and Q and A	All speakers
1:00 pm	Zoom meeting concludes
April 14	COOL NEW TECHNOLOGIES
Noon	Welcome	Dr. Ben Chapman and Dr. Richard Linton, Program Co-Chairs, NC State University
12:05 pm	Virtual/Augmentation Reality and Artificial Intelligence Training for the Food Safety Professional	Jennifer Tong, NSF
12:20 pm	How Food Safety Professionals Use Advanced Technology and Information, from Supplier-Consumer, to Revolutionize Food Safety Practices	Speaker to be confirmed
12:35 pm	Panel discussion and Q and A	All speakers
1:00 pm	Zoom meeting concludes
April 15	SOCIALLY SPEAKING
Noon	Welcome	Dr. Ben Chapman and Dr. Richard Linton, Program Co-Chairs, NC State University
12:04 pm	Building a framework to aggregate social media data	Patrick Quade, Iwaspoisoned.com
12:11 pm	Using social media to help make good food safety decisions: A health department’s perspective	Courtney Ziemer and Stefanie Moccero, Public Health Madison, WI
12:18 pm	Using technology to help make good food safety decisions: A perspective from the retail food industry	Speaker to be confirmed
12:35 pm	Panel discussion and Q and A	All speakers
1:00 pm	Zoom meeting concludes

Continuing Education Units (CEUs) will be available from the National Environmental Health Association (NEHA) for workshop attendees